Your Wedding Flower Checklist

What Flowers Will You Need?

It's easy to focus on your bridal bouquet and ceremony flowers, but there are many ways to incorporate florals throughout your celebration.

Use this checklist to explore the possibilities and identify the elements that matter most to you.

Personal flowers

- [ ] Bridal bouquet
- [ ] Bridesmaid bouquets
- [ ] Flower girl posies or floral accessories
- [ ] Groom's buttonhole
- [ ] Groomsmen's buttonholes
- [ ] Family buttonholes and corsages
- [ ] Floral hair accessories

Ceremony flowers

- [ ] Floral arbour or ceremony structure
- [ ] Statement plinth arrangements
- [ ] Aisle flowers
- [ ] Ground florals or meadow-style arrangements
- [ ] Welcome sign flowers
- [ ] Signing table arrangements

Reception flowers

- [ ] Guest table centrepieces
- [ ] Bridal table flowers
- [ ] Bud vases and smaller arrangements
- [ ] Welcome table or seating chart flowers
- [ ] Cake flowers
- [ ] Bar and drinks station arrangements
- [ ] Additional statement floral features

Finishing touches

- [ ] Flowers for special family members
- [ ] Floral styling for photographs
- [ ] Arrangements to reuse between ceremony and reception
- [ ] Keepsake flowers to take home

PLAN WITH INTENTION

How to prioritise your flowers

Start by choosing your three most important floral moments.

Perhaps it's a statement ceremony installation, your bridal bouquet and beautiful reception tables. Perhaps your priority is creating an immersive garden-inspired setting.

Once you know what matters most, you can build your floral plan around those priorities rather than feeling that you need flowers everywhere.

i. FLORAL MOMENT ONE

ii. FLORAL MOMENT TWO

iii. FLORAL MOMENT THREE

Not every wedding needs every floral element. A thoughtful design focuses on the spaces and details that will have the greatest impact.
